OUTSIDERS' VIE FOR GOLF TITLE

Ohio Women's Championship
Between Misses Isabel Ogilvie and Sally Elson

LATTER ONE UP IN 18

Columbus, Cleveland Contenders Bid for Crown Held by Mrs. Burt Weil

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, July 15.—Two girls who started as outsiders but tied today for the Ohio women's golf championship in the 18th annual tournament at Scioto Country Club, the favorites having fallen by the wayside during three days of heavy match play.

Miss Isabel Ogilvie, 25, of Cleveland, and Miss Sally Elson, 24, of Columbus, were the participants in the 36-hole final, the winner taking the title which Mrs. B. T. Weil of Cincinnati had worn for the last three years.

Miss Elson was one up today at the end of 18 holes. She covered the last nine holes in even par 41 while Miss Ogilvie was on even on the back stretch. They had a 42 and 46 respectively going out, giving each a medal count of 55 seven over par for the 18-hole route.

Both girls bagged 18 holes. Both finalists played ruggedly on the outgoing nine. Miss Elson finishing seven over par and Miss Ogilvie six over.

Mrs. Weil surrendered her laurels yesterday to Miss Ogilvie. Four down with seven to play, she came back to win five of those holes for a one-up victory. It was Mrs. Weil's first defeat in 13 matches in the classic.

Following her defeat Mrs. Weil said she did not know whether she would make an attempt next year to regain her lost laurels at Akron Portage.

Miss Elson reached the finals with a 4 and 3 verdict over Mrs. Edward Goddard, the former Edith Hegg of Cleveland, tournament finalist.

Eleven of the 16 qualified had lower totals than the 59 which Miss Ogilvie posted to get into the match play, while 10 matched or bettered the 55 with which Miss Elson got in.

Miss Ogilvie accounted for three of the top-notchers, beating her own path to the title match. She won from behind to defeat Mrs. Shorb of Massillon one up in the first round and went 22 holes to defeat Mrs. Curtis Kohl of Coleridge 1921 and 1929 champion after quelling the match on the 18th. She topped her performances yesterday however by eliminating the champion who had defeated her 6 and 7 three years ago in the final at Toledo Inverness.

Miss Elson had an easier time getting to the championship match with a 2 and 1 victory over Mrs. Pete Hester of Mansfield, a 4 and 3 decision over Miss Dorothy Gardner and yesterday's win over Mrs. Goddard.

The petition filed by Mrs. Ida Mae Gares yesterday names as her grounds for divorce habitual drunkenness, extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty. She asks for the custody of three minor children and a reasonable amount for their support. She is represented by Mouser & Mouser.

GROVER WINS OUT IN ZONING TRIAL

City Can't Restrict Use of Dwelling, Judge Martin Rules.

J. Owen Fletcher, 46, of 785 Mt. Vernon avenue, was found not guilty at a hearing in municipal court yesterday on a charge of operating a business place in the residential zone. The charge, said to be the first since adoption of the city's zoning ordinance, had been filed by Police Chief Marks upon complaint of residents of the neighborhood.

In finding Fletcher not guilty, Municipal Judge Martin said it was his opinion that existing ordinances do not provide for the zoning commission to control the use of a dwelling so long as it used in whole or part as a residence and no new buildings are additions, no new alterations, and no new changes.

Fletcher had been cited July 2 when he opened a grocery store on the second floor of his home at 785 Mt. Vernon avenue. The zoning ordinance, which was adopted last year, prohibited the use of a dwelling for any other purpose than as a dwelling.

FIREMEN AGREE TO DELAY PAY RESTORATIONS

Decision Reached at Conference of Department Committee and City Officials

PRESENT DEFICIT SHOWN

Firemen Cite $6,000 Balance But Mayor Counters With Opposite Figures

Confronted with figures showing the city is operating under a $3,315.34 deficit for the first half of the year a delegation of firemen at a conference with Mayor Smith and the city finance committee agreed to hold off in their demands for restoration of 100 per cent pay until financial conditions improve.

The conference had been arranged following a resolution to "suspend" last month of pay raises for the full year as agreed by various groups affiliated with the Marion Central Labor Union, the Marion Food Distributors Association, the Marion Electric Light & Power Co., and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Council had referred the petition to the finance committee for study.

It was agreed last night that regardless of the decision made in committee the committee should report back to council at its next meeting and request a formal rejection of the petition. The petitioners pointed out that firemen had been on 85 per cent pay for 17 months and contended that the city's financial condition had improved to a point where restoration was possible.

Mayor Smith began the conference with a request for information from the firemen as to how they had concluded the city was in good financial condition.

City's $6,000 Balance

O. A. Siffert, chief of the fire department, said that the city's financial condition was good. He said that the city had a surplus of $6,000 in March, that taxes were coming in more plentifully, and that the city's financial condition was good.

He also said that the cost of living was rising rapidly and pointed out that Galion and Blaine field have restored pay.

Mayor Smith then revealed the results of a study of city finances made by him, Clerk Harry Brookshire and City Auditor J. L. Landers. He said it showed the city owes $21,662.65 and that only $15,659.49 is on hand leaving a deficit of $5,003.16.

He pointed out that the deficit is substantially the amount of sales tax revenue which Gov. Davey withheld from Marion and other local governments this spring for two months for flood relief and said the city is making every effort to collect it.

He then calculated the deficit by another means using the actual certifications made the first of the month to the city, and comparing the receipts to the city.

He pointed out that the deficit is $11,870.40. Mayor Smith subtracted from this $10,825 for half the certification for the garbage department which by ordinance is financed separately and cannot enter into fund transfers. This leaves a certification for the half year of $1,045.40. Receipts from taxes and fees totaled $13,578.86. Subtracting from this $13,047.50 collected in the garbage department the mayor arrived at total half year receipts of $121,532.06 from $124,845.40 the deficit on July 1 was $3,313.34.

Note Due Soon

In addition to the deficit a note for $10,154.97 for money borrowed last fall for firemen and policemen salaries from September to Jan. 1 comes due Aug. 9 the mayor said.

STEEL CO. FACES LABOR CHARGES

Republic Plants in Ohio Named in Long List of 'Unfair Practices'

SET WEDNESDAY HEARING

Lockouts of Workmen and Domination of Union Are Among Allegations

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, July 15.—The labor relations board charged the Republic Steel Corp. today with a long list of unfair labor practices, before and during the recent steel strike.

The board ordered a hearing here Wednesday on its complaint which covered only the company's Ohio plants.

First item of the board's complaint was its allegation that the company discharged 75 employees for joining the steel workers' organizing committee, subsidiaries of the John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization. Other workers were threatened with discharge if they joined the committee.

It added that Maxwell and Cannon employees were locked out as a result of union activity.

The company also was charged with maintenance of extensive armistice at the Youngstown plant, Warren, Canton and Cleveland plants for the purpose of interfering with restraining and coercing its employees at said plants in the exercise of their right to self-organization.

The steel firm had increased its police force at the time of the strike the board said for the purpose of interfering with the right of its employees peacefully to picket the plants.

The board's complaint preventing the charges of Wagner act violations was issued after an investigation which resulted from the filing of complaints against Republic Steel by the Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

The board charged the company with contributing financial support to and dominating labor organizations at five of its plants.

It named these as the Employees Representation plan and Employee Independent association at Warren.

CHILD IS INJURED IN FALL FROM PORCH

Joann Maxine McCurdy of Pleasant Acres in Clinic in Serious Condition.

Joann Maxine McCurdy, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne W. McCurdy of Pleasant Acres, is in serious condition today at the Frederick C. Smith clinic as a result of injuries suffered when she fell from a porch railing on a stick protruding from the ground.

An emergency operation was performed at the clinic last night. Dr. Frederick C. Smith said the chances of an infection setting in are high. The child, believed to have been a broom handle, entered the pelvic region and tore the flesh six inches within the body he said.

The father said he was called to the home of a neighbor Ray O'Donnell, where the accident occurred about 5:30 and immediately notified the clinic. The mother brought the child to the clinic in an automobile. The child was playing with a son of Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell.

The child had been playing at the neighbor's home with a ball. Attempting to throw it, she got on the railing of the back porch and fell. The stick, which was about six feet high, to protect a flower bed, the father said.

She is a pupil at Pleasant Acres school, an only child, two brothers, Richard, 11, and Wayne, Jr., 10, and her sister, Betty, 6, are at home.

McCurdy is employed at the Smith clinic. The accident home is on Common place, just west of Route 15 south of Marion.

Foes Of Court Bill Strike Back When President Says Passage 'Duty of Congress'

Marion Co. Among Best Honey Producing Areas in Country

James W. Bain is shown in the photograph above at work among his bees at the Bain residence on the Delaware road. He is sitting at a hive he designed to produce from seven to 10 queen bees daily with out any sacrifice in the production of honey. The design is developed in widespread use throughout the country. Prior to its development, hives used in breeding queen bees produced virtually no honey.

James W. Bain, widely known expert on bee culture, points to excellence of local conditions.

MARION COUNTY has the distinction of being one of the four best honey producing counties in Ohio which ranks as one of the five best honey states in the nation according to James W. Bain of the Delaware road, a half mile south of the Harding Memorial, who backs up his opinion with 50 years of intensive study and work with bees. He is Marion county's biggest honey producer and raiser of queen bees.

Marion county can claim this place in the spotlight of the bee world, Mr. Bain said, because the clover and alfalfa that produce the nectar for the bulk of the honey in this county bloom at a time when there are no other honey producing flowers or plants in bloom. The result is honey of a purity not obtainable in most other localities.

The significance of purity is as great in honey as in apples. The orchardist who tries to sell barrels of apples in which there were a dozen different varieties in each basket would have a hard time finding a definite market value for his produce. Mr. Bain explained.

These and other interesting facts about bees and their habits were disclosed by Mr. Bain in an interview at his home where 75 colonies of bees were busy producing honey and 100 other nuclei hives were turning out queen bees on a commercial basis. The weather was ideal for bees at the time, and Mr. Bain estimated the thousands of bees would produce about 500 pounds of honey that day.

Hive Wide Reputation

Mr. Bain has won widespread recognition among the bee men of the nation. He is well known to readers of bee publications, contributing valuable helps to the bee industry as a whole, rather than seek personal profit through trying to patent his inventions.

For example, he designed a hive that promotes the rearing of queen bees and by his use seven to 10 queen bees, which sell on the market at prices ranging from 75 cents to $1.00 each, can be produced daily. His usefulness, however, does not stop there because all this is done without any sacrifice in the bee's daily production of honey.

The hive he designed for this purpose has been adopted by hundreds of apiarists.

Mr. Bain also played a prominent part in an experiment conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which showed that the honey produced by bees in Marion county was of a higher quality than that produced by bees in other parts of the country.

"SUICIDE CLUB" NEW THEORY IN MURDERS

Criminologist Gives Possible Explanation of 10 Torso Killings at Cleveland.

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, O., July 16.—Officials today studied a report by Edwin J. Greel of Washington, a research criminologist, in which the theory was advanced that the 10 murders in the Kingsbury Run series of torso killings in the last two years were the work of a suicide club.

The report was given to Coroner S. R. Gerber, Safety Director Elliot Nees and Police Chief George J. Matowitz.

"Pathological suicides are of course quite common," Greel said in his report, "and so are pathological types of killers. The combination of the two is a very rare occurrence, however, of a much less common occurrence."

"When the combination does occur, the person then not only desires to commit suicide, but he also wants to kill someone else at the same time," Greel pointed out.

"The strange fact appears that several of the victims of the torso killings were not only a transient or floating type, but further there are certain reasons for believing that they are of a distinctly suicide-killer type," Greel declared.

Greel expanded the theory that if all the torso victims were of the suicide-killer type, they formed themselves into a club with some outside person, whose personal joy was killing at their head.

He suggested that the member who was to die at a given time was selected by lot and the one selected then permitted himself to be killed by his fellow club members.

MYSTERY SHOOTING FATAL TO DOCTOR

Fashionable Rhode Island Physician Victim; Two Persons in Custody.

By The Associated Press
PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 16.—A fashionable obstetrician, Dr. George W. Webster died today on the operating table of a hospital here his life sealed on the mysterious circumstances surrounding his shooting early this morning.

An officers hurried to his home, summoned by the doctor, who was crawling mortally wounded through two rooms to a telephone. Patrolman Charles H. McNamara reported the physician told him:

"Don't look for clues now. Get me to a hospital."

Questioned by Detective Raymond Fenner, who asked who shot him, the doctor again replied:

"I don't know."

At the hospital he died without opening his lips. He was 30.

He was struck down by two pistol bullets, one in the stomach, the other in the shoulder. A third shot went wild.

Police officials said they were without a tangible clue to the mysterious shooting.

Dr. Ralph Purvine of Rhode Island hospital, ambulance surgeon, said Dr. Webster told him that it was an attempted robbery.

The police found $300, however, in the physician's clothing.

Deputy Supl. James Cusick of the detective division theorized that the person who shot Dr. Webster followed him into the front vestibule.

Cusick said it had been learned Dr. Webster had been at consultation in Jamestown, R. I., last night.

Two persons with him during the evening were taken into custody for questioning, but Cusick said they were not connected with the actual shooting.

Dr. Webster's wife and children were in Watch Hill, R. I., at his summer home.

MINE BLAST FATAL TO 20 INVESTIGATED

By The Associated Press
SULLIVAN, Ind., July 16.—State and federal investigators groped today through a fog of gloom enveloping this community for an explanation of a sudden underground gas explosion which cost the lives of 20 coal miners.

Strangled bodies of the victims, remounted from the scene of the blast 212 feet below the surface of the Glendora Coal Co.'s Baker mine near here, were taken to Sullivan's two mortuaries where relatives claimed them.

Nine other miners were injured, four seriously enough to remain in Mary Sherman hospital here. Two of them may die.

One hundred and forty-four miners escaped the force of the explosion yesterday. They organized rescue efforts and brought the injured to the surface, but fire and poisonous gases prevented them from reaching the dead.

Many of the survivors were summoned to a former inquest ordered by Coroner Cecil B. Taylor for this afternoon.

C. W. Tompkins, a part owner of the mine, expressed belief there were two explosions, a smaller one before the final death-dealing blast. He said he believed they were caused by gas pockets set off by a miner's open carbide lamp.

RELATIVES AND FRIENDS AWAIT NEWS OF TRAPPED MINERS

ESCAPED CONVICTS KIDNAP OIL SCION

Southwest's No. 1 Bad Man and Companions Hold Victim Eight Hours.

By The Associated Press
SAPULPA, OKLA., July 16.—Police men stood watch on blocked highways today for Roy "Pete" Traxler, the southwest's No. 1 bad man, believed fleeing northward after releasing the kidnapped son of a wealthy New York oil man.

The youth, 21-year-old Baird H. Markham, son of Gen. Baird Markham, an official of the American Petroleum Institute, was seized near Ada, Okla. Traxler, his left arm shattered by a bullet, and two companions, all escaped Trans company, took young Markham's automobile and forced him to accompany them.

Markham was released near here after eight hours and 15 minutes during which time he said the men crossed through the country, dodging a posse from which they had escaped by abandoning their own car and taking to the woods only shortly before.

Markham, a Yale student, is working for an oil company for experience during the summer.

Young Markham said all three men admitted they were fugitives from the Texas prison farm at Huntsville. Besides Traxler, he identified a second man as Charles Chapman, Chapman was wounded in the shoulder, Markham said.

The incident declared both the original court bill for six new justices, and "Sanctor Robinson's bill" which would permit the appointment of one new justice each calendar year, are clearly constitutional.

Another reason for action by legislation rather than by constitutional amendment, Mr. Roosevelt said, is the fact that the situation of the civilized world has been at a point of extreme danger for several years.

The United States is happily free from any thought of aggression or enmity for aggression," he continued, "but the people of the United States have called for economic security and for major social improvements. National safety demands them."

MARION CO. AMONG BEST HONEY AREAS

thing you can pick up in a week's time," Mr. Bain said.

Honey producers don't like dandelion honey because of its dark appearance, and sell it at a low price. However, the peak of Marion's dandelion season is out of the way before the clover season comes along, and apiculture profit by the fact that the bees build up their strength for the summer's work by using the dandelion honey they produce. With this done, the hived bees fade out when the Dutch white clover comes along, and throughout the clover season the bees make honey and money for their owners. Alike and sweet clover, along with the Dutch white clover, are big sources of nectar.

In the fall, Hester said, a plan found in abundance in low black ground and widely distributed Aster produce nectar in the latter part of the season.

Some of the interesting facts Mr. Bain disclosed about bees include the following:

Bees work within a radius of three miles of their hive in level country but in valleys have been known to travel between six and seven miles.

Six months is the life span of bees born late in the fall to work. Those born in the spring with plenty of work awaiting them live about 45 to 50 days.

Honeybees live through the winter months, but with bumblebees, only the queen lives through the winter. If she survives, she begins the following spring by building one cell, depositing one egg and rearing one helper. From this start a nest of bees develops.

Every bumble bee you see in the fruit blossom season is a queen bee," Mr. Bain said.

Bees have tongues varying from 10 to 23 inches in length. With this they dip into the blossom and gather nectar, depositing it in a honey sack which holds one large drop. A bee may work two hours and visit hundreds of blossoms before filling his honey sack.

Bees from different countries have different characteristics. Prior to introduction of the Italian bee, the black German bees were the most common here. One of the most difficult bees to handle comes from Cyprus Island, off Italy. It strikes the hardest, but it has powerful wings that will withstand heavy wind, which is a problem to bees.

The Ohio counties which Mr. Bain ranks with Marion county in the purity of its honey are Madison, Paulding and Van Wert. The fact that these counties rank high is entirely due to a gift of nature, the bloom of good honey producing growths at a time when there are virtually no other growths to detract from the purity of the honey, Mr. Bain said.

The states that Mr. Bain ranks with Ohio as producers of pure honey are Michigan, New York, Colorado and California.

Mr. Bain, now 67, became interested in bees as a boy when the family lived on a farm near a colony of DeCliff. He subsequently operated apiculture on the home farm, at a later residence in Marion, once for the A. I. Root Co. at Medina, the largest manufacturer of bee supplies in the world, and for O. C. Barber, the late match king, at Barberston. He also was in government bee service for a short time.

He and Mrs. Bain are parents of a son Jack, of New York City, who is eastern advertising manager for The Printing Industry trade publication, and a daughter, Edna, a student at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich.

AUDITOR WITHHOLDS SALES TAX MONEY

Effect on Marion County Subdivisions Awaited by Officials Here.

Action of State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson in withholding distribution of June sales tax receipts until the state attorney general rules on a new law left Marion county officials up in the air today as to what might be the effect on local political subdivisions.

The Associated Press reported from Columbus that distribution of the sales tax funds will be delayed until Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy rules on the law, which provides that the revenues are to be withheld until the subdivisions pay, or make arrangements to pay, bills owed by them to the state.

County Auditor Harry V. Mounts said Marion county owes the state $37,420.29 for care of inmates in the state hospital for the feeble-minded, but that all other state bills are paid up to date. The bill for the feeble-minded inmates has accumulated since 1931, Mr. Mounts said.

The auditor declared it is not possible for the county to levy enough taxes under the 10-mill limitation to pay a state bill in addition to meeting other expenses.

Mr. Mounts said the county and its subdivisions were expected to receive approximately $55,000 in sales tax revenue in the rest of this year. The $35,000 figure is the amount that may be affected by the new law, he pointed out. Receipts from sales taxes so far this year have totaled $24,871.01, of which the city has received the major portion, the auditor said.

Amounts owed the state by other Ohio counties include $567,000, owed by Franklin county, and approximately $700,000 owed by Hamilton county, news reports from Columbus stated.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR YEAR SHOW DECREASE

However, Reduction in Federal Expenses Due to 1936 Bonus Payments.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Congress has appropriated more than $7,000,000,000 this year for federal expenditures, committee records showed today.

This includes an estimated $133,205,000 for the interior department, which the house may cut to some extent before giving final approval next week.

The budget bureau recommended general expenditures of $7,534,036,150.90, while the comparable appropriations last year were $8,703,321,105.52.

Although an economy campaign resulted in holding funds some $300,000,000 under the budget bureau's recommendations, this year's appropriations would be more than $1,000,000,000 ahead of last year's, but not congress voted $2,237,000,000 in 1936 to pay the soldiers' bonus.

Including miscellaneous appropriations, such as those to pay claims against the government, permanent and indefinite appropriations, the grand total approved by congress last year was $10,338,302,725.65.

Not until the present session would the total of this year's miscellaneous appropriations be known. A third deficiency appropriation for unanticipated expenditures must yet be passed.

Using the estimate for the interior department, appropriations for regular federal activities have aggregated $4,647,007,903.63 this year, compared with budget estimates of $4,555,313,517.25 and last year's total of $5,939,673,869.05.

WOMAN DRIVER FINED, SENTENCED

Mrs. Edith Anderson, 10, of 28th East Church street changed a woman plea in municipal court yesterday to guilty on a charge of driving while intoxicated. She was given a 10-day sentence to the county jail, fined $100 and costs, and her driving rights were revoked for six months by Municipal Judge Martin.

Mrs. Anderson was arrested July 7, about 6:30 p. m., by highway patrolmen from the Marion sub-station on State route 4 one and one-half miles north of the junction of routes 4 and 23. She had pleaded not guilty at a court arraignment and her hearing had been set for yesterday.

quarter of the city into darkness. At the home of A. A. Stiel at 197 Elm street a large limb of a tree was blown by the wind or hurled by lightning against the roof, tearing off a cupola and ripping a large hole in the roof. Damage was estimated at $50. No one was injured.

A small building on the farm of Mayor Smith in Prospect township was upset by the wind. Part of the roof of the home of Albert Frazier on Cheney avenue was torn off. Several other minor roof damages in the city and barn damages in the county were reported.

Of the crops corn seemed to be the worst hit by the storm, many stalks being blown off and large areas throughout the county "littered" against the ground. Wheat and oats suffered similarly. Several farmers said they expected the corn to straighten up before cutting time, but that a considerable part of the battered wheat will be lost.

Phone Lines Hit
Ohio Associated Telephone Co. trouble men worked until 1 a. m. today and were out early this morning to make repairs to the extensive damage to the vicinity of Green Camp, LaRue and Prospect.

Trees and branches falling on the wires during the high wind which accompanied the storm were responsible for the damage, those in charge of repairs said. It was impossible to estimate late this morning in how many places wires were broken.

All toll lines were in service early this morning but the work of repairing the local service lines would require some time to complete, it was reported.

The Marion-Reserve Power Co. had workmen out from 8:30 until 9:45 last night on Greenwood street near North street where two lines were blown down and transformer fuses blown out. Several other minor calls came from throughout the city. This morning workers were still attempting to locate the break in the street lighting lines that threw the southwest section of the city into darkness. The damage was expected to be repaired by noon.

Delink Litter Streets
Workers of the city service department worked from 8:30 until early morning cleaning up debris in the streets. On South State street three saplings were snapped at the base by the force of the wind and throughout town limbs and branches were down. South Main street and South Prospect street seemed to be hit more than any others, workers said.

The county engineer's office received one call to remove a limb from the airport road west of the city.

According to the official weather prediction, showers and more thunderstorms are in view for Marion and vicinity tonight and Saturday. Cooler weather is seen for tomorrow day and night. The rainfall here yesterday measured .38 of an inch. The highest temperature was 89 and the lowest 69, as compared with 87 and 67 a year ago.

No serious damage was reported for the villages in the county, although a brilliant display of lightning accompanied the terrific wind and rain. The intensity of the storm interfered with the lights flickered several times during the storm. Rainfall measured 28 of an inch and the Selo raised from 5 feet to 5.60 since yesterday morning. No danger of the river getting out of banks was expected. At LaRue it was up a foot.

The storm caused postponement again of the annual firemen's gift festival at Prospect which had been delayed previously from Wednesday night by another storm. The date now is next Wednesday night at 8 p. m.

STORM DAMAGE GENERAL IN NORTHERN OHIO

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, O., July 16.—Cleveland, Akron and other northern Ohio points today joined in storm clean-up work which has been the lot of other sections of the state this week.

A record July wind, reported at a 36 mile an hour velocity here, and 62 miles an hour in Akron, accompanied damaging storms in this section last night.

Trees were uprooted throughout the area covered by the storm. Traffic was blocked by fallen trees in many sections.

Telephone and power lines were down in a number of places with the damage to these utilities reported particularly heavy at Akron and the lake resorts.

The coast guard reported early today it had been unable to find two men in an outboard motor boat believed to have been out on the lake when the storm broke.

Mrs. Lenore Drobina, 25, was knocked unconscious when lightning struck a tree here near where she was standing.

Heavy rain at Bellevue further retarded work of pumping water from streets which have been flooded since June 25.

A near-collision at Lorain temporarily halted automobile traffic and street car service.

One Mansfield and two Cleveland deaths yesterday were attributed by physicians to the heat. Throughout the nation the heat wave caused approximately 400 deaths during the past 12 days.

Four cities reported temperatures of 100 degrees or more yesterday. They were Dodge City, Kas. 100; El Paso, Tex., 102; Phoenix, 106; and Yuma, Ariz., 108.

Whetstone township in the southeastern part of the county was the worst hit, several roofs having been blown from barns.

Power lines and telephone communications were disrupted generally over the county. Four state routes were blocked for several hours while trees were being cleared. The city service department worked until this morning clearing streets.

HEAT, RAIN PLAGUE EARHART SEARCHERS

By The Associated Press

Four missed flights over the equatorial area where the pair vanished July 2 have netted only 100 flares from the aircraft carrier Lexington.

Somewhere in the water south of Honolulu, Navy planes today searched for the missing plane and her crew. The plane appeared while attempting a 250-mile flight to the mile-and-a-half long island from Lae, New Guinea. More than 200,000 square miles around Howland, which lies two feet above the sea, have been combed by ships and planes.

Naval authorities here indicated the hunt probably would be continued Saturday.

STATE DEPARTMENT INQUIRIES PROMISE

Amusement Park Cyclone Serves As Aid To Matrimony, Inventors Declare

BY CHARLES NORMAN
Associated Press Writer
MARION, N. J.—Sex and fear are the ingredients that go into the success of coasters and roller rides.

It is a basic principle of matrimony, too. The principle is that the public in on it—when they find out that the wheels go round, they come.

Brothers Irving and Harry, designers and operators of the Cyclone roller coaster at Coney Island 10 years ago, are now in the precarious position of strong men pale with nervousness.

Their sons are proud of the fact that at this late date, the Cyclone roller coaster is still in operation. They even had customers who stayed on for hours, and a girl, too, for a minute.

They are a lot of marriages that have been made. When a girl is around her, you see her break the ice.

From the first, up-to-the-minute roller coaster thrill, the Cyclone is ever-present in the mind of an enclosed ascent, when boys and girls may kiss before the roller coaster falls into each other's arms for dear life.

Brother Run's a Wow.

The development of speed thrillers in the amusement parks is the advent of the automobile, the motorboat, the airplane and, finally the hoisted run, the ne plus ultra of sensation, according to Irving, who, however, didn't use the phrase.

"We saw that the public was nosy," he says candidly. "I wanted to know how things were done. That's all we needed to know. We developed the hoisted car. When people get behind the wheel, they were happy. They were driv-

MARION AND MORRAL AUTOS IN COLLISION

Three Persons Injured in Accident at Main and George Streets.

Three persons were injured in a two-car collision at the intersection of Main and George streets yesterday at 3:25 p. m. Mrs. S. J. Swindler of East Center street suffered face cuts and body bruises, and two daughters of Mrs. Wilbur Griffith of 382 North Main street, Sue, 8, and Carroll, 6, suffered minor cuts.

Cars driven by Mrs. Griffith and Mrs. E. M. Moore, not identified, figured in the collision. Mrs. Moore was headed north on Main street and Mrs. Griffith was southbound and attempted a left turn to George street when the accident occurred, according to a report of the accident to police. The right running board, fender, rear axle and body of the Griffith car were damaged and the front end of the other car was damaged and the windshield broken.

Mrs. Swindler, a passenger in the Moore car, was treated at a physician's office and released.

ing, just like the folks with automobiles. This was when automobiles were still a novelty.

"The public, you see, wants to keep up with the Joneses. After the auto thrill, they wanted a motorboat thrill, because they had heard of it. We gave it to them, letting them drive it themselves. Then they wanted to go up in the air. So we designed the flying scooter. It goes in circles, and dips and loops.

"Now," says Irving, and his eyes light up, and even brother Jack, who has been listening quietly, seems imbued with fervor, "now it's the Lake Placid hoisted run. Who goes to Lake Placid? Only the choice few. So we give the public the thrills of the famous hoisted ride—72 miles an hour on the curves—the greatest creation yet created in an outdoor amusement park."

The hoisted run cost $135,000, the brothers say, was under construction from January to July 1, and contains 250,000 board feet of lumber.

"It may come to $150,000," says Jack. That's because it's being covered with fake icicles and splashes of camouflage paint.

The first human beings on the hoisted roller coaster were the Rosenbalm brothers, but the first trial run was done with sandbags. It was only after the brothers tried it out that it was found that on some of the curves the coaster sleds went up too high. It's one of the things that make the amusement business interesting.

"What's next?" exclaimed Irving. "We're working on a stratosphere flight. We'll shoot the car out of a cannon with compressed air. Oh, boy! You'll see it at the World fair."

JAP CASUALTIES IN PEIPING AREA GROW

Twenty Killed and Sixty Wounded in New Outbreak With Chinese.

By The Associated Press
PEIPING, July 14.—The death of two Japanese soldiers in a new clash with Chinese troops, a Japanese official declared today, raised the total of Japanese casualties in north China to 20 dead and 60 wounded.

Major Takeo Inai, assistant military attaché at the Japanese embassy here, said a Chinese force and a small Japanese detachment garrisoned at the Huangtun station, eight miles south of Peiping, clashed yesterday.

One Japanese soldier was shot, Major Inai said, and another was beaten to death with a Chinese military sword.

The embassy spokesman declared that heavy casualties since the first clash at Maan Polo bridge, west of Peiping, ten days ago compelled Japan to "take proper measures."

Chinese intelligence reports indicated Peiping was being cut off from reinforcement by a semi-circular line of Japanese fortifications south of the city. The reports said the line might sever Peiping from the rest of China.

Although they have been an official ceasefire order, Major Inai declared Japanese authorities were alarmed for the safety of Peiping's Japanese residents. Many Japanese and Koreans as well as wealthy Chinese have fled. The city was quiet.

Peace negotiations were understood to be proceeding at Tientsin.

16 UNHURT IN BUS ACCIDENT

Hits Bridge Near Meeker When Driver Swerves from Truck's Path.

Sixteen persons, passengers in a Greyhound sleeper bus, escaped injury in an accident at Meeker shortly before noon yesterday when the bus crashed into a concrete bridge abutment as the driver swerved it from its course to avoid a collision with a tank truck and trailer loaded with approximately 3,000 gallons of gasoline, highway patrolmen, who were called to the scene, reported.

The accident occurred at a bridge on route 30 S, at the west edge of Meeker, at 11:15 a. m. The bus, driven by Edward Jones, 39, of near Lima, was eastbound, enroute from Chicago to New York. Jones told patrolmen the bus struck the west corner of the south abutment as he piloted it from the left through a rear safety door, when it was impossible to open the front door after it was crushed by the impact. The front of the bus was also damaged considerably.

A. M. Peters, 63, his son Roy and continued through the bridge, which lies at the east end of a sweeping curve in the highway. The truck driver stopped immediately after passing the bridge and assisted in releasing the bus passengers through a safety door.

As the bus struck the south abutment, it swerved, crossed the highway and plunged into the center of the north abutment. Damage to the bus was estimated at about $200. Passengers were taken to a nearby grocery store and assisted in removing the passengers transferred to another bus. A nine-year-old Ada girl, Caroline Snyder, was among the bus passengers, who with the exception of another Ohioan, were from other states.

Probst of East Center street, at the home of the former at 571 Mt. Vernon avenue. Miss Schrader will become the bride of John Allen Kline of Euclid, O. next month.

The shower was in the form of a treasure hunt with the gifts hidden throughout the rooms. Bouquets of garden flowers carried out a colorful decorative note and the appointments for refreshments served at small tables were in Miss Schrader's wedding colors of yellow and white. The hostesses were assisted in serving by Miss Helen Fields, Mrs. Carl Riemenschneider of Cleveland, aunt of the bride-elect, who an out of town guest.

Marriage Meddlers

—BY ADELE GARRISON

Lillian's Han on Restaurant Mystifies Everyone.

IT IS only once in the much quoted "blue moon" that Lillian Underwood addresses her husband in militant fashion. Though an ingenious woman naturally, and not much used to contradiction, her manner to her big husband is admirably modulated, neither submissive nor dominant.

I know that Harry Underwood was as mystified as I as her decisive announcement that we were not going into the restaurant her daughter and the three other young people of our party had chosen. Just as mystifying was her command to him to get the young people back with us, quickly. But he wasted not a single second in obeying her, although he is naturally a person who brooks no restraint himself.

Girls Rebel—Lillian said, "If we've got to be shock troops, we might as well swing into."

Arrangements for the picnic were in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. Elmer Harruff, Mrs. Guy Coleman, Mrs. Paul Lill, Mrs. Minerva Stull and Mrs. William Mills.

The Treasure Hunters club is the name chosen by members of a newly-organized literary club at their meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ray Weston of the Wyandot road. The club chose "The Life of Helen Keller" for a study program. Guests were Mrs. Doris Sappington, Mrs. Ruth McCombs, Mrs. Kathryn Louden-singer and Mrs. Helen Weston. The next meeting will be Aug. 5 with Miss Nellie Myers of north of Marion.

action. You take Marion, and I'll tackle Carolyn. If we snipe them out, the boys will come a-running." I smiled to myself at the truth of his prophecy as I saw the pro-claiming toward the car. Harry leading by the arm, a firm grasp, I guessed. Dicky followed with Marion, quieter, but plainly sharing Carolyn's rebellion, and Bill and Hank, bewildered and resentful, brought up the rear.

"What's the big idea?" Hank demanded when he came up to us. But William's elbow, prodded into his ribs, brought out a sulk, "Sorry, shouldn't have said that."

But Carolyn had no such inhibitions. "That's what I'd like to know, Hank," she said. "Here I just get my toes unlimbered, and there's a padlock snapped on everything."

"Terribly sorry, Carolyn," Lillian soothed, indifferent to the flushed, resentful face of her daughter's school roommate. "But I saw something around that I want to let you girls see there, or indeed, any of us, I didn't want to take time to explain. I simply wanted to get away as soon as possible."

"What was it, Mother? Something dead?"

Won't Explain—"No—no—not exactly," Lillian answered, and I suddenly knew that in her own phraseology, she was "spinning a big one."

She paused for an instant and then hurried on.

"Don't ask me about it," she said with a realistic shrug. "I don't want to spoil your dinner now, and I may never tell you. Best to forget all about it and hurry on to the next best place I know, Harry, let's cut across that back road to that place on the other side of the lake—you know—Barkers."

"Okay by me," her big husband said obediently, and Carolyn squealed her delight.

"Oh, what luck!" she said. "I wanted to go to Barkers, but I didn't dare ask. I was afraid you'd put the kibosh on it."

"All right, we'll go to Barkers," her husband said, and spoke no more until the four were seated at a table and discussing the first course of a delicious supper while we watched the four young people dance. Then he leaned across the table to Lillian.

"Come clean, Sapphira," he said. "What was the real reason you snatched those kids away from that other place?"

WYANDOT CO. HORSES WIN RECOGNITION

Series With Delaware Co. Bred Animals by O. S. U. Specialist.

WYANDOT COUNTY has been named as the best county in the state for pure bred horses by D. J. Kaye, specialist in animal husbandry at Ohio State University.

This is largely due according to Professor Kaye to the records of Charles Avery Wentz, of west of here, who is the county's outstanding horse breeder. Wentz entries have won many prizes at the Wyandot county, Ohio State, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan fairs and in other stock shows. Last year at Chicago Mr. Wentz' senior stallion captured the first ribbon in competition with 29 other Belgian horses.

The Philippine government has released 1,000,000 pesos for public works, of which 1,000,000 pesos have been allotted to interprovincial highway construction.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE SERVAUD

(Copyright, 1934, Marie de Servaud)

SYNOPSIS: When Kay Crandall of the East Blue loses her ranch home and home in a fire, Jack Hastings, owner of the Flaming Six, tries to buy her ranch and court Kay, she distrusts him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild Hastings' home. Kay, a rancher's daughter, impulsively hired, rescued her. Later they shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings, having built a new ranch, using Ted's gun, Ted crawls to an unknown shack where a girl named Blanton waits. Ted through a work of fever and delirium. The gun is found and Sheriff Farley gets on Ted's trail.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN
A Narrow Escape

A FAINT call from the inside of the shack sent Marion running back. As soon as she stepped in the door and found Ted's dark eyes fixed on her, she knew she had really won the battle.

For the first time, his eyes gazed at her with a seeing look, and his pupils dilated with surprise.

"What—what—where am I?" Ted tried to raise his head, but his strength failed him, and he sank back exhausted by even that small effort.

Marion crossed quietly to his cot and put a cool hand on his head. He still had fever, but she no longer encountered the hot, dry skin she had learned to expect through the past week.

"You mustn't try to talk yet," she warned him. "You've been very sick, but you are going to be all right now."

For some time he pondered this, his eyes fixed on her face.

"Where's Kay?" he said finally. "Marion shook her head. 'I don't know. I can't tell you anything, so please don't use your strength by asking questions. There is no one here but me.'"

"How—how long—?" His lids began to droop. Instead of answering, Marion lightly held her hand over his eyes, and in a few minutes his regular breathing proclaimed him asleep again.

Stepping to the outer door, Marion drew it to, leaving it slightly ajar and sagging on its hinges as she had first found it. Although she had been forced to break her promise to her father when she had taken in this young man, she had scrupulously kept her word in every other regard. Any one coming unexpectedly on the scene would have undoubtedly pronounced it deserted.

She moved quickly around the two rooms into which the cabin was divided, patting them in order while she waited for the water to boil on the single oil burner which was her only source of heat.

She had taken a chance on building a fire to the stove at night, but with the first coming of dawn she had put it out so that no tell-tale smoke should betray their presence.

Humming a little tune in her ear, that her patient was out of danger at last, Marion looked speculatively at the rough planks that boarded the windows on the outside.

If she could only take them off and let the sun stream in, instead of groping through the cracks, it would be so much more cheerful! She started toward the door, with a sudden decision to obey her impulse. After all, it was ridiculous to stay cooped up this way! If any searching party had been out for this wounded rancher, it had evidently passed by this hidden spot long ago.

As she reached the inner door that led to a tiny vestibule, she suddenly stopped to the spot. Her hand clutched the door frame and her breath came fast. She listened with desperate intensity for a repetition of the sound she thought she had heard. A second later, she heard with unmistakable distinctness a shout in the distance, and an answering call some what nearer.

"Don't Make A Sound."

Pushing the inner door shut again, Marion darted to the oil stove and turned it out, then sat down by Ted's cot, her eyes fixed on him, watching for any sign that his sleep had been disturbed. With bated breath, she waited, while the voices drew nearer, her mind torn by indecision.

Should she make her presence known? If Ted had been still in danger, she would have felt that she must get what help she could to save him. But now that she was sure he was on the road to recovery, her first duty was to her father.

If the dread suspicion she harbored as to his activities was true, it would mean certain imprisonment and possible death for him if he were taken. To find her there would inevitably put any searchers on his track, and they would wait to take him when he came back.

She put one hand on Ted's forehead and felt his pulse with the other. There was no doubt but that his fever was down and his pulse much stronger.

A sudden shout outside made Marion start violently. She saw Ted's eyes open as a man's voice exclaimed, "Look at this clearing, will you. How'd we miss it before?"

Bending swiftly over Ted, Marion whispered with compelling intensity, "Don't make a sound! It is the one thing I ask, in exchange for saving your life!"

After one wondering look at her, Ted feebly pressed her hand in acquiescence and together they waited in breathless silence, listening to the oncoming footsteps crashing through the brush.

"Say, that's old Ten Strike's hang-out! Don't you ever run across it?" A second voice answered the first. "His shanty there's been deserted a dozen years or more, I've since the old boy kicked out."

"We'd better have a look at it," the first voice boomed. "Gaynor might—"

Marion felt the hand in hers jerk spasmodically.

"Aw, what's the use? The other voice broke in, impatiently. "We're just wasting valuable time. If that guy had been able to get as far as this after bumping Scrap Johnson off, he could have made a real getaway. And believe me, he wouldn't have lost any time doing it! Besides, that shanty looks just the way it did the last time I saw it, a couple of years ago."

"Just the same, I'm going to have a look," the first voice insisted stubbornly.

"Suit yourself. I'll be going on. After you finish looking over deserted real estate perhaps you'll catch up and help me track down the murderer."

Marion bit her lips and involuntarily gripped Ted's hand, as she studied his bewildered expression. Then she turned her eyes fearfully toward the door.

A heavy tread tramped up the two steps, and the outside door was shoved open. Holding her breath, Marion braced herself for the next moment, when the intruder would step across the space that divided the two doors, and push open the inner one.

She could feel him peering in the small darkened space, and hear him stamp an expectant foot on the rotting flooring. Then, to her immense relief, he sprang back and shouted to his companion:

"Hi! Wait a sec! I'm coming!"

Marion could scarcely believe that she was hearing his retreating footsteps. For a full second longer the dread tension held her. The sight of Ted's white face and closed eyelids, as he slumped back on the pillow, galvanized her to action, and she reached for some cold water to revive him.

Marion believed in Ted.

The distant footsteps, crashing through the brush, had completely died away, when Ted finally opened his eyes again, to find Marion gazing at him with solemn intensity.

"Is your name Gaynor?" she asked.

Ted nodded. "Yes, it is. But I'm as much in the dark about this murder talk as you are. You believe that, don't you?" His eyes closed again with exhaustion.

"Yes, I do believe it," Marion answered, with conviction. "I can tell by looking at you that you're no murderer. And from what you said when you were delirious I gathered that you'd been shot before you had a chance to aim, and your shot had gone wild."

"That's just the way it was," Ted nodded. "I don't remember anything after that. I can't separate dream from reality. I could have sworn that I saw Jack Hastings bending over me once, but that must have been plain nightmare. But where any number comes in—?" He suddenly raised himself on his elbow and demanded, "Why didn't you let me find out what in hell they meant by this talk of murder?"

Marion gently pushed him back and said, "You mustn't get excited! Whatever they meant, you're better off right where you are, until you're stronger."

"But you?" Ted fixed his eyes on her. "Why are you here, in hiding?"

Marion hesitated a moment, and a slow color came into her cheeks. "That's a long story," she said finally. "I'll tell it to you later. I have to stay here without any one knowing of my whereabouts, until my father comes back." She paused a moment, then added, "Not even the man I'm engaged to know where I am."

For a long moment the two gazed at each other, then Ted wearily closed his eyes.

"I don't make head or tail of it," he murmured, in a weak voice.

Letters From Our Readers

TRIP-AST-RED-IT-UES

Editor of The Star
In reply to the article about the first Highland township school record I wish to say that the old document is owned by the children of the late Michael Jacob. Mr. Paul Reynolds has the value of the old book and came to the rescue. He and Mrs. Reynolds have been very kind to return the old document. I wish to say that I do value the value of old documents and furniture. As a child when my mother was an invalid for five years and later when I took up the responsibility of my father's home, I learned from my parents to love and cherish the old furniture and records.

It has been my privilege to be the companion of a good woman for almost six years. Mrs. Mary Lewis Justice. We have spent many happy hours together in looking her childhood days in Highland and Walla townships with the Lewis Justice King Parham's Luchan Waldell Worline Myer Olson Emery and Jacob's family. What I value more than worldly possessions is to be told by Mrs. Justice that my parents and grandparents were Christian people.

The first religious society that was formed in Highland township Marion county Ohio was organized at the home of Mr. Jacob Justice and Katherine Emery. I have in my possession an old book titled "The Life of John Wesley" dated 1820 owned by John Emery also the "Michigan Family Bible" which is of great value to the Jacob's family.

In these days of rapid travel when we have to shut our eyes at times for fear we will see an accident from our front seat it is a wise parent who will work to get the child interested in all stamps and relics.

"DUSTY" MILLER ON KIWANIS PROGRAM

Wilmington Philosopher and Humorist Addresses Marion Luncheon Club.

Thurman "Dusty" Miller of Wilmington, O., well-known after dinner speaker, entertained members of the Marion Kiwanis club at their weekly luncheon meeting yesterday noon at Hotel Marion. The speaker, introduced by Carl E. Danner, chairman of arrangements for the program, launched into an inspirational talk, which was spiced from start to finish with humor. "Life," Miller said, "is the sum of situations and attitudes." In explaining his philosophy, Miller went on to say that each person finds himself always in some situation and with some attitude in relation to it. The people who succeed, he pointed out, are those who are able to make the most of their own situation. "One should always take a positive approach to any situation rather than a negative approach," Miller continued. To become successful, men should like their work and have a contagious enthusiasm for it. Although there is no blueprint or formula for enthusiasm, we should be affiliated with organizations of people to catch the tune of the world. "Remember," Miller said, "the world will either laugh with us or at us, and we should make our lives too joyous to be laughed at." Miller's talk was received with enthusiasm by the 50 Kiwanians present for the luncheon. J. J. Huebner, president, presided.

Better Try Your Guest Room Before Parking Friend In It

BY JOAN DUNHAM
Associated Press Writer
It's an old hostess custom—sleeping in one's own guest room. It pays handsome dividends in reputation.

The only way to know if your guest room bed is comfortable is to spend a night in it.

The only way to find out how good the mirror in the adjoining bathroom is for shaving is to have your husband try it out.

Here's a list of guest-rooms to anticipate the needs of your most fastidious visitor:

In the bedroom:
A bed that's neither too hard nor too soft. That insures a good-night's sleep in the morning. Plenty of blankets. Try sleeping in your wrapper or under a coat that keeps sliding off during the night, as some guests have had to do, if you don't believe it.

Windows and doors that open and shut easily and then stay put. Otherwise a guest in a room up a YES A NEW MATTRESS FOR OUR GUEST ROOM. (HISOR NOT THE DATE.)

dozen times come right to prop a chair against a door or push open a window that blocks shut with each strong gust of wind.

A clock that's wound and running when the guest arrives. At least two hooks—neither too high, nor too low—brow for the guest.

Letter paper or penny postals—so the guest can get off those necessary notes. Don't forget pen, ink and blotter. And in case your guest is having such a good time he forgets the date, a calendar makes a handy addition.

Empty drawers. And that means empty. At least one small drawer for items such as cosmetics, one large one for underwear, sweaters, etc.

A clothes brush. A shoe brush helps, too.

An ash tray or two, and matches. A small sewing kit—with darning cotton and plain thread.

A good mirror and a good light. Try putting a full-length mirror on the back of the closet door. Add a bed lamp for reading.

In the Bathroom:
Plenty of hot water.

Faucets that turn completely off. No all-night drip-drips.

Soap. It doesn't have to be fancy, but there must be plenty of it.

Extra tooth brush, a guest-size tube of tooth-paste and a small bottle of mouth wash.

At least one generous bath towel, a face towel and a face cloth for each guest.

Paper slippers—in case you have slipshod-guests.
